

make learning real™
BUSINESS EDUCATION
COMPACT

BEC Credit for Proficiency Workshop Series

Proven methods for implementing Credit for Proficiency

Want to implement Credit for Proficiency in your school district? Do you need help in identifying all the elements and seeing “best practice” models?

This three-day workshop addresses how Credit for Proficiency supports high school reform standards and ALL students in being successful. Participants will understand critical issues in writing policy, procedures, practices and assessment. All participants will develop a plan to implement credit for proficiency for their schools and students using samples from other districts.

Workshop Facilitator:

Diane Smith, Director of Curriculum and Instruction
Greater Albany Public School District

Who Should Attend:

Districts are encouraged to send a representative team. That team should include teachers, school and district administrators.

Workshop Format:

Three one-day sessions occur over the course of a two month period that result in implementation plans supported by online resources from the BEC.

Dates and Location:

Monday, February 25 and Tuesday, February 26, 2008 at the NWRES D

Monday, March 31, 2008 at the NWRES D in Hillsboro

Price:

Cost is $395/person for 3 days, includes books and materials. Graduate credit is available. Cash/Check for each participant or P.O. number is required on or before first workshop date.

“The workshop series [was] “an ‘absolute homerun’ for our team. . . A must for any district that wants to take on this challenge. . . In short, it is among the ‘top five’ professional development events that I have encountered in my 22 years of education.”

Steve Kelley, Lebanon Community School District

If interested in participating, contact Tamra Busch-Johnsen at 503-646-0242 x 24 or email her at tbuschjo@becpdx.org or register online by going to www.becpdx.org then click on Workshops and Events under Quick Links!